Why is physical activity so important?

Involvement in sport and active recreation has huge benefits for all people's physical and mental wellbeing, and forms part of a balanced, healthy lifestyle. Through participating in community sport and recreation you will not only reap the rewards of exercise but make new friends, be part of a team or club and achieve personal goals.

Whether you're seeking a chance to improve your skill or elite glory, sport and recreation is for everyone, regardless of ability.

People with a disability are 15% less likely to participate in sport and active recreation than the general population – let's change this by promoting access for all.

Access for All Abilities

Funded by the Victorian State Government, Access for All Abilities has helped grow inclusive sports and recreation for people with a disability for more than ten years, now funding over thirty community and sporting organisations – from Blind Sports, Basketball and Baseball to Lawn Bowls, Sailing and Balloon Football. Access for All Abilities ensures that every person, regardless of ability, has an opportunity to participate in sports and recreation in their community.
